IMPLEMENT

Resources, activities and challenges to deepen connection and collaboration each month

We are excited to share The Folio Method with you, which Meredith presented as a featured speaker at the Festival of Education on October 21st and exclusively for our members during a webinar last week (see excerpt of the conversation below).

Over the past year, we have been distilling our research and 10+ years of experience working with member schools to build a framework that helps schools

The Folio Method is built from our team values and principles for professional learning excellence. It helps our member schools to build and sustain intentional systems and cultures of feedback and professional development. At a high level, the Folio Method asks schools to:

- Articulate your position and destination in order to chart the plan
- Collaborate because transformation happens in groups
- Take purposeful action to achieve your objective
- Provide ongoing support through skill development and resources
- Seek input because growth requires feedback
- Schedule time for reflection because it is just as important as time for action
- Share and celebrate success to enrich the entire community

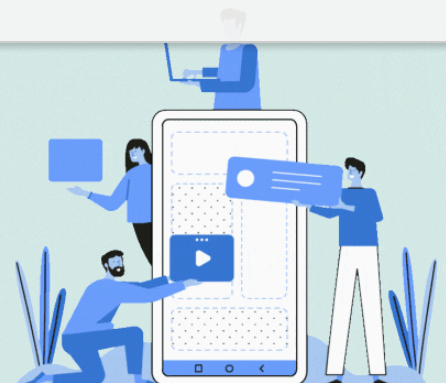

To support schools interested in leveraging The Folio Method, we have created The Folio Canvas. This planning guide prompts leaders to reflect on the concepts related to each component of The Method and further develop a professional growth plan. Use this as an opportunity to reflect on and celebrate professional development so far this year.

In the coming months, we are excited to provide more updates and tools related to The Folio Method. Stay tuned!

"if you facilitate [employees'] steady progress in meaningful work, make that progress salient to them, and treat them well, they will experience the emotions, motivations, and perceptions necessary for great performance. Their superior work will contribute to organizational success. And here's the beauty of it: They will love their jobs." The Power of Small Wins
